

IDAHO AG TECHNOLOGY BOOT CAMP

January 4-5, 2018, Idaho State University,

Roy F. Christensen Bldg, Pocatello, ID

JANUARY 4, 8 AM– 5 PM

Brent Hillman, Progressive Crops, Shelley, ID -

Understanding the Ag Technology landscape & preparing for the future

Kris Poulson, Sentera, Minneapolis, MN - Leveraging real time data to bolster return on investment

Nephi Harvey, Fort Supply Technologies, Kaysville, UT - Ultra-high frequency ear tags for livestock management

Dr. Howard Neibling, University of Idaho Extension Irrigation Engineer, Kimberly, ID & Jeff Bulkley, United Distributors, Twin Falls, ID - Using irrigation sensors to save water and money

Mark Davis, Simplot SmartFarm Regional Manager - Making variable rate fertilizers pay on the farm

Dr. Howard Neibling & Ben Eborn, UI Ag Economist, Montpelier, ID - Economics of Low Elevation Spray Applications (LESA)

Shawn McBride, ISU cyber-security instructor, Pocatello, ID - How to keep your data safe from hacking

ON-LINE REGISTRATION:

[cetrain.isu.edu/
agtech](http://cetrain.isu.edu/agtech)

$45—Jan. 4 seminar only
$65—two day (seats limited to 25)

JANUARY 5, 9 AM to NOON- Drone class with ISU Instructor Charles McNeel at Bannock County Extension Fairgrounds

University of Idaho
Extension

United States Department of Agriculture

National Institute of Food and Agriculture

GREAT WESTERN MALT®
A GrainCorp business

AB InBev

